

To whom it may concern. This is my first experience with XM radio. Let me tell you I have fallen head over heels in love with XM to the point I am soon going to purchase the equipment to have XM in my home. It is unfair for land based radio which pales in the shadow of XM. If they could get off their wallets and provide equal or better service maybe then they would have less to whine about. Most of XM is commercial free thank GOD. That is one of the reasons I am so thrilled with it. With the music options XM does not stick with play lists as its cowardly land based competitors do. Land based carriers should take the money they are spending on this cowardly attack put it toward offering the public a superior product then maybe instead of whinning they then can gloat. I for one do not see XM as trying to destroy land based radio just offer those who are willing to pay top dollar(IT is in no way cheap) a top quality service.
